A LITTLE BIT ABOUT THE

blog

It's Not Complicated Recipes is a food blog designed to inspire you in the kitchen! My recipes are all made from scratch, using some fabulous simple tricks and hacks I have learnt along the way. You will find a mix of starters, main courses and desserts, as well as small bites ideal for entertaining. We share a variety of recipes suitable for different dietary requirements.

A LITTLE BIT ABOUT ME

alexandra

I am a food blogger from Adelaide, South Australia. I started this blog to combine my true loves – writing, cooking (and eating!) and travel. I have previously worked in the airline industry and real estate, and as a result, have developed great time management and organisational skills. You can be assured that when working with me, I will give 110% and deliver on my word. I have excellent engagement across my social media accounts and blog.

i look forward to speaking with you!
